

⁽²⁾

State government is framing its development policies at the Secretariat for the welfare of the people, not in the party office. As a result, average income has increased with development in quality of living of people. Chief Minister also said, success does not just come after birth. It takes a transparent and proper management and state government is working with the same goal. He said, teachers have a significant role in building independent future of students. Only positive management and mentality can make the society beautiful. State government has given priority to creating opportunities in education so that even a student from Antyodaya family could build himself like former President of India and scientist APJ Abdul Kalam. A mentality to become self-reliant has developed in the state now. Advanced connectivity and development in highway, express train, airplane services have helped elevate development of the state.

Start-up, IT hub, Special Economic Zone are showing new path to income. Earthquake resistant multi-storied buildings are being built because of right management. Chief Minister said, although earlier there was lack of sincerity to solve long-awaited problem of Reang migrants from Mizoram now the issue has been resolved permanently with holistic attitude. After a discussion with the Union Home Minister he ordered to include the Reang refugees in Antyodaya category, provide housing and different facilities to them to improve their quality of living. This shows the determination and positive vision of the present government. Chief Minister also said, recruitments were done in education and other sectors. Recruitment to more 4,900 posts is ongoing. The people of Tripura can evidently see a good side unveiling in the state. They can see a ray of hope. As a result, their expectation is growing towards the government. Quality of education in the state has improved due to different steps taken in education sector. As a result, parents are now eager to send their children to government schools. There were some hurdles in implementing 'Natun Disha' programme for increasing the efficiency in different subjects including maths due to Covid pandemic. But Chief Minister made the teachers pledge to achieve 100 percent coverage by November 14 to.

Education Minister Ratanlal Nath in his speech said, government has taken many steps to develop education sector. As a result, according to PGI, Tripura has risen from Grade 5 to Grade 1. Education is getting back its name with the guidance of the Prime Minister. The positive impact of centralized/national education is becoming visible. Teachers are the only one who can shape up the students into good citizens. Government is working to build Tripura into a perfect state in every sector including education. Revenue Minister NC Debbarma in his speech emphasized on felicitating those who have contributed to education in present days and those who have made special contribution in education after Tripura got its statehood. Chief Secretary Kumar Alok in his speech said, a Guru's contribution is undeniable in developing knowledge. Like the potters shape the clay materials, similarly teachers build future of students in right direction. Others present on the occasion were education secretary Soumya Gupta, director school education and State Project Chandni Chandran, higher education director NC Sharma, chairman of State Higher Education Council Arunoday Saha. Chief Minister along with other guests unveiled a souvenir namely 'Shiksha Samachar' on that day.
