Covid-19 precaution vaccination to health workers, frontline workers and senior citizens

Covid-19 precaution jabs are being given to health workers, frontline workers and senior citizens above 60 years of age with different kinds of diseases starting from yesterday for those who have already had taken two doses of Covid-19 vaccine earlier. Covid-19 precaution jabs are being given to only those who have completed ninth month i.e., 39 weeks of taking second dose of Covid-19 vaccine. In this regard, the individual may not need to show treatment certificate of having any disease as a proof document. This campaign was organized yesterday in 557 Covid Care Centers. This information was collected from a press release issued by National Health Mission.
